

A Summer Evening

On the last golden evening of summer, Leo, Mira, and Alex climbed the cliffs above the little harbor town. The sea shimmered below them, the lighthouse glowed in the distance, and the whole sky felt full of quiet magic.

The Moon Grew Brighter

Then Alex noticed something strange. The moon was growing larger and brighter, and thin golden ribbons of light were curling around it like secret messages written in the sky.

A Call from the Lighthouse

A trail of stardust drifted toward the lighthouse,
so the family followed it down the winding path.
At the very top, a kindly keeper whispered that the moon had lost its way and needed help finding its place again.

The Night They Saved the Moon

Together they lifted lanterns, laughter, and hope into the night. The golden light rose in a shining spiral, the moon drifted back into place, and the little town below sparkled as if it had been given a brand-new dream.
